

MEAT RIOTS BREAK OUT IN HARLEM.

Women Invade Upper Madison Avenue Shops, Threatening Proprietors.

MOB WOMAN PURCHASER

Attack Police, Who Arrest One Leader, and Make Vigorous Efforts at Rescue—Further Trouble Is Feared.

The meat riots to-day spread from the lower east side to Harlem, where determined women visited a number of kosher meat shops, threatened the proprietors and intimidated customers. They mobbed and injured one woman purchaser and three were arrested. In the arrest the police were mobbed and came near losing their prisoners through rescuers.

A crowd of women from the First and Second avenue districts invaded the Madison avenue field early in the morning. A score of them went to the shop conducted by Joseph Solomon, No. 1624 Madison avenue, and ordered him to close. Instead, he called the police, and Capt. Haughey, of the East One Hundred and Fourth street station, with a detail of men drove the women away.

Threaten to Close Shops.

From there they went to the shops in the neighborhood of One Hundred and Sixth and One Hundred and Tenth streets and declared if the shops did not close they would be put out of business.

They were ordering Samuel Kammerick to close his place at No. 69 East One Hundred and Ninth street when the police found them and drove them away.

Then they went to Isaac Moritz's shop at No. 209 East One Hundred and Second street, and there found Mrs. Ada Blau buying a chicken. They dragged her out of the shop, pelted her with the fowl and in the fight which followed Mrs. Blau was severely scratched and beaten. The crowd which had been following the score of women had increased to several hundred when the police arrived. Three women were arrested. The prisoners are: Mrs. Sarah Blitstein, No. 1975 Second avenue; Mrs. Tina Pass and Mrs. Esther Wesa, of the same address.

But they were not placed in the patrol wagon without a fight. The mob, which sympathized with the women, attacked the police, and were on the point of rescuing the prisoners when reserves arrived.

Fight on Lower East Side.

The feature of the fight on the lower east side is the effort of the members of the Kosher Butchers' Benevolent Association to hold a meeting.

They can find plenty of halls which would accommodate them, but they can find no place where they would be immune from the attacks of the mobs of women whom they have offended by raising the prices of meat. But the women have won much of their battle already. They have so thoroughly intimidated the kosher butchers that last night most of them decided not to open to-day.

The women held a meeting last night and formed a permanent organization to be known as the Ladies' Anti-Beef Trust Association. Mrs. Caroline Schatzberg was elected president, Mrs. Sarah Blitstein, of No. 458 Grand street, was elected treasurer, and Jacob Kirshberg, was made secretary.

POISON ANTICIPATES DOOM OF HANNA'S FAIR COUSIN.

MISS JULIA WILLIAMS AND FIANCE.
She died in his arms from an overdose of strychnine.

PITTS DUFFIELD

Beautiful Julia Williams Takes Strychnine Pellets at Fifth Avenue Hotel and Dies in the Arms of Pitts Duffield, Her Fiance.

Accompanied by her mother and fiance, the body of Miss Julia Hanna Williams, Senator Hanna's cousin, who died at the Fifth Avenue Hotel yesterday from strychnine poisoning, was taken to-day to Detroit, Mich.

The inquest will probably be held to-morrow, there seeming to be but one theory, that of an accidental overdose of the poison taken as medicine.

A development of the peculiar case is that brought out by the Coroner's autopsy performed by Dr. O'Hanlon. Miss Williams had been engaged to marry Pitts Duffield, but the wedding had been indefinitely postponed because it was found that she was afflicted with tuberculosis. She was sent to Colorado and then to Saranac. From Saranac she came to New York Saturday with a doctor's certificate that she was entirely cured, and she and her fiance, who visited her while she and her mother were at the Fifth Avenue and in whose arms she died, had planned to be married in November, she being "entirely cured."

The autopsy showed that she was not cured and never could have been cured, that both of her lungs were irreparably injured, and that she could have lived but a short time.

Motive for Suicide.

This statement of the post-mortem physician led many to the belief that the young woman was aware of her condition, knew her fate, and when it came time to take a single one of the strychnine pellets as a heart strengthener she saw her opportunity to end all and took every one in the box.

While the doctor was working over Miss Williams Mr. Duffield arrived. Breathless, Miss Williams was still conscious, and she was able to take leave of him and her mother. She died soon after Mr. Duffield reached the hotel, at about 9:30 o'clock.

Mr. Duffield is about thirty years old and has been connected with the house of Scribner for four years.

"Miss Williams had been at Saranac Lake and had been pronounced by Dr. Trudeau to be practically cured," he said. "She was advised to go where she could get salt air, and she was on her way to Atlantic City.

"Dr. Trudeau had prescribed the strychnine tablets, and she took them at her own discretion. She had a nervous trouble that affected her eyes, and she was to have seen an oculist to-day. She took the tablets to relieve it. Nobody knows how many there were in the box.

No Explanation to Fiance.

"She said that she had taken the tablets to relieve her head before she went to the oculist. She told her mother what she had done and Mrs. Williams immediately sent for the doctor and for me. I arrived before Miss Williams died and talked with her. I asked her no questions as to how she happened to take the tablets, and she said nothing to me on the subject. She knew that it was strychnine she was taking, and there was no mistake in regard to the box."

ELOQUENT WOMAN LEADS WAR ON HIGH PRICED MEAT.

Mrs. Caroline Schatzberg Chosen President of the Anti-Beef Trust Association.

In selecting Mrs. Caroline Schatzberg as its president the Ladies' Anti-Beef Trust Association found a humanitarian of natural eloquence. Her eloquence is of the ghetto and untrained. "It was born a Jew," she said, "but my religion is Humanity. I will have been here nineteen years on the coming 4th of July. In that time I have tried to help the poor people, for the rich can help themselves. I am interested in this appeal for meat at a proper price because it affects the poor. We have been compelled to pay very high prices for very poor meat. But what has increased my most is that the Gentiles could buy their fine meat in their better shops at a lower price than we could get our miserable lot. It has not been right. We have been imposed upon by our own people and essentially it is a fight among ourselves.

"I do not believe in fighting or violence and I have counseled against it. But our people are ignorant and they recognize power only in physical strength. We hope to show them, however, that more can be won by a good argument and a consistent stand."

FIRE IN CELLAR OF BUTCHER SHOP.

Although Israel Cohen did not have an ounce of kosher meat in his market at No. 39 Essex street, a suspicious fire at No. 458 Grand street, just before 8 o'clock this morning was thought by the police possibly to have some connection with the recent riotings.

The fire started among rags and rubbish. It had smoldered for hours. Two policemen were on post barely a block away, but saw nothing suspicious. Cohen opened his shop at 7 o'clock. He had no meat to sell, but began cleaning up. Shortly after the fire broke out, it was extinguished with small damage, but not until the smoke had thoroughly saturated the cellar. The fire destroyed a double tenement above.

MEAT RIOTS SPREAD TO BROWNSVILLE.

Rioting over the price of kosher meat broke out in the Brownsville section of Brooklyn this morning. Abraham Horowitz and his wife, leaders of a mob of 1,000 that was parading the streets, were arrested and extra reserves were gathered at the Brownsville Police station to suppress the disorderly.

A meeting was held in Sanger Hall last night at which an order was given that all kosher shops in Brownsville should close. The butchers obeyed the order with the exception of Dora Rosen, of No. 1724 Pitkin avenue. This shop is directly across from the police station and was the first to be attacked. Mrs. Rosen closed her shop after the disturbance and the mob dispersed. Committees are patrolling the streets to see that the kosher shops do not open.

BOARD CAN CONTROL ENTIRE STATE.

Comptroller Grout Points Out Exceptional Power Vested in the Rapid Transit Commissioners.

Controller Grout said to-day that the powers of the Rapid Transit Commission should be merely confined to New York City but that any city in the State which has 1,000,000 or more inhabitants would be under its supervision regarding rapid transit.

He added that rapid transit in the city of Buffalo, as soon as its population was 1,000,000 would come under the supervision of the present commission with Buffalo's Mayor and Controller as ex-officio members.

This unlimited power Mr. Grout held, was dangerous and he reiterated his statement in his letter to Andrew H. Green that the members of the commission should be elected or appointed for definite terms and not allowed to fill all vacancies themselves, thereby making it a self-perpetuating body.

Mr. Grout was asked what he meant by saying that the Board was entirely too ambitious in voting away money. To illustrate Mr. Grout spoke of the case that came before the Board at the last meeting. The contractor wanted $1,000,000 additional for the construction of ducts in the subway. Mr. Grout claimed that this was part of the equipment of the road and as such an item for which the contractor should pay.

ROW ON IN THE STEEL TRUST.

Opposition to the Proposed Bond Issue Suddenly Develops—Stock Weak on Account of the Situation.

For the first time since the organization of the United States Steel Corporation, opposition developed among the stockholders today to a plan of the men who are financing the big deal.

The opposition arose over the proposal to retire $200,000,000 of the 7 per cent. preferred stock, issue $200,000,000 of 5 per cent. bonds, sell $50,000,000 worth of the bond for cash and pay J. P. Morgan & Company $100,000,000 for underwriting the deal, this amount being 4 per cent. of the entire bond issue.

The chief objection was to the payment of $100,000,000 to the Morgan banking house. All of the protesting stockholders opposed this section of the resolution.

Some combated the idea of the new bond issue altogether. Because of this opposition United States Steel stocks were very weak on the Stock Exchange to-day.

The opposition, however, was stronger verbally than financially. At the opening of the meeting, which was presided over by President Schwab, it was announced that 3,738,238 shares of the preferred and 3,955,245 shares of the common stock had been deposited with him to be voted in favor of the new plan.

This amounted to 80 per cent. of the preferred and 55 per cent. of the common, making it certain that despite objections the measure would pass.

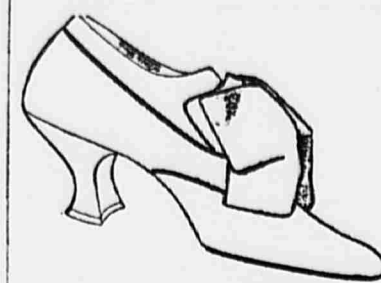

Francis Lynde Stetson, legal adviser to the Morgan banking house, and E. H. Barry, Chairman of the Finance Committee of the United States Steel Corporation, explained to the meeting the plan of retiring the preferred stock and issuing the bonds. Mr. Stetson said that the compensation of $100,000,000 to J. P. Morgan & Co. was no more than adequate for the risk of underwriting a deal of that magnitude.

John S. Hawley, who represented 3,500 shares of preferred stock, was the first to make objection. He said it would be an unwise thing to pay Morgan & Co. a commission for the retirement of stock that came to the firm without solicitation.

STOCK MARKET CLOSED FIRMER.

Rally in Afternoon Brought Prices Up Somewhat After Weak Opening—Affected by Labor War.

The stock market to-day was very dull and without special feature at the opening. There was a general disposition among the operators to hold off, in view of the unsettled situation in the anthracite coal regions, and the whole market is reflected by the unsatisfactory bank statement of Saturday.

Prices at the start were fractionally above the closing figures of Saturday. There was not much movement in the early trading, but the general tendency was bearish.

Lack of support on the bear side, however, caused a slight rally later in the morning and prices generally went up above the opening.

The coalers opened weak, but later became steady. The Pacifics were weak at the start. Later in the morning the trading was almost at a standstill. Trading continued extremely dull during the day with the general tone weak.

Prices went off until late in the afternoon, when some new buying caused a rally, and a few of the stocks went to the highest point of the day.

The closing was quiet and around the highest prices. The total sale of the day was $50,000,000 and of bonds $2,000,000.

The local cotton market opened steady to-day, with prices 3 points higher to 2 points lower. There was a fairly good demand from room shorts in the early trading, which created a firm tone in the market. There was light support from commission houses. Sentiment was bullish on the reports of high winds in Central Texas and light port receipts.

ENGINEER'S WIT AVOIDS A CRASH.

With Open Throttle He Pulls His Loaded Cars Out of Reach of a Jersey Central Express Running Wild.

By a hair's breadth, the quick wit of the grimy knight of a cab saved a hundred or more passengers from death in a horrible form on the Jersey Central Railroad at Matawan crossing to-day. Five men who jumped from a train were the only ones injured.

A heavy Asbury Park express of eight cars cleared the crossing just as the Long Branch accommodation rolled past on the main line. So close were the two trains that the suction of the express caused the signal flag on the accommodation to swirl around the poles.

Of the injured, Herbert Burrows, an architect, of this city, may die. Physicians pronounced his case critical. As he jumped he landed on a pile of ties beside the track, and it is feared that his skull is fractured.

Leander Woods and Jesse Heger, of Keyport; Burton S. Brown, of Atlantic Highlands, and an unknown man also jumped. Woods was badly cut about the face and hands.

A score of passengers in the rear car of the accommodation train, after making vain efforts to escape by windows and doors, fought with each other in the center of the car. Several women crawled under the seats and shrieked with fear.

The engineer of the accommodation was given the right of way from the crossing tower. When he heard the short, sharp whistle of the approaching express he slackened speed for an instant.

To his dismay he found that the brakes would not work readily on account of the wet rails. Then he opened the throttle wide and raced for the crossing.

He had not given his engine full headway any too soon, for the heavy express train was beyond the control of Engineer Joe Tate, and although power had been shut off at Hazlet station, a mile and a half up the track, the emergency brakes were ineffective, and the train bore down on the crossing with no reduction in speed.

ACCUSED BY BROKERS.

Dental of Theft Made by Superintendent of Branch Office.

Victor P. Lanning, of No. 503 Prospect avenue, was held for examination in the Jefferson Market Court to-day, charged with the larceny of $41 from J. L. McLean & Co., brokers, at No. 25 Broad street.

Lanning was in charge of the branch office at Spring street and Broadway. He left April 15 and put the office in charge of Harry J. Tuttle. The firm alleges that his accounts show a shortage of $41. McLean says that he gave Tuttle $200 of this amount before he left. He admitted that he might owe the firm $41 or even more, because he said he had been ill six weeks, but he said he had not refused to pay and had no intention of refusing.

FOUND CHINAMAN DEAD.

Quo Ching's Body Discovered in Laundry—Partner in Custody.

Quo Ching, a Chinese laundryman, was found dead in his laundry at No. 46 Nostrand avenue to-day. There was a cut under his chin which the police thought might have been made by a knife and they took his partner, Lu Ting, into custody on suspicion.

Lu Ting says Quo fell out of his bunk during the night. Both of the men were in Chinatown last night and did not get home until early this morning. So far as the police are able to learn Quo had no motive for Lu Ting to have put his partner out of the way. An autopsy will be held.

Algonquin Club's May Party.

At the May party given last Saturday by the Algonquin Club, the Tammany Hall organization of the Thirtieth Assembly District, in which more than 10,000 children participated, the Eighth Eleventh District, of which Ed Schneider is Captain, carried off the honors as being the most attractive of the twenty districts represented. The following children were present: Miss. Edward Schneider; queen, Lucinda Wagner; fairy attendants, Frank Schneider and Mena Schneider; maid of honor, Elsie Schneider; flower girls, Frances Schneider, Louise Schneider, Madeline Schneider, Frances Kroyer, Elsie Schneider, Emma Alton, liberty girls, Lucille Walker, Edna Walker, Clara Harper, Anna Schneider, Mary Schneider, Willie Schneider, Charles Leiser, Mary Leiser, Willie Leiser, and Mary Leiser. The party was supervised by Mrs. Katherine Frank Brucher, with Mrs. Granger and Miss Brucher, visited the children in the afternoon and helped them.
